Former Congressman Robert S. Walker Receives Top Civilian Honor From NASA

Washington D.C. – The Honorable Robert S. Walker, Chairman of Wexler & Walker Public Policy Associates, recently received NASA’s Distinguished Public Service Medal for his service to NASA.

The NASA Distinguished Public Service Medal is the highest honor awarded by NASA to non-government civilians whose distinguished accomplishments have contributed substantially to the NASA mission. According to NASA, the contribution must be so extraordinary that other forms of recognition would be inadequate.

“I am honored to be awarded such a high accolade by this extraordinary institution. My work in and around the NASA community has been one of the most rewarding experiences of my life and I look forward to furthering the goal of space exploration in the years to come,” said Walker.

Walker also received the NASA Distinguished Service Medal in 1996 while serving in Congress. The Distinguished Service Medal is the highest honor that NASA confers to individuals in Federal service.
